Free Rein Farm receives $26,400 gift from 100 Women Who Care – Elk Rapids Area

Free Rein Farm Executive Director Kristin Molby (far right) joined by members of 100 Women Who Care – Elk Rapids Area and support donkey Dottie.

Free Rein Farm was recently selected as the recipient of a generous donation from 100 Women Who Care - Elk Rapids. Over 290 members joined together in making a collective gift totaling $26,400 to be used to expand outdoor facilities at Free Rein's farm in Bellaire.

Free Rein Farm uses Equine Assisted Learning to support children and youth facing emotional trauma and adversity. They provide safe, guided interaction with their animals both at the Bellaire farm and at schools and other community sites throughout northwest Michigan.

"We are incredibly grateful to 100 Women Who Care - Elk Rapids Area for supporting Free Rein Farm! Their generosity will help us strengthen our Equine Assisted Learning programs and advance our suicide prevention efforts" said Free Rein founder and Executive Director Kristin Molby. "We believe that connection IS suicide prevention, and this gift will help our nonprofit create a safe, welcoming place where children and families can connect with nature, animals, and a supportive team while finding hope, healing, and support."
